

"That's what's so nice about watching the game on television—you can always turn the channel selector and prevent the other team from scoring."

The Morning Mail

Wiley Explains, Supports U. W. Cancer Funds

Editor. The State Journal—I was most interested to read your editorial in a recent edition of The Wisconsin State Journal entitled "Our Two Alisen Senators."

Like myself, I am deeply concerned with providing adequate research to protect our people against the hazards and fatal dangers of cancer.

Particularly, I am interested in moving forward the splendid research program as carried out at the University of Wisconsin.

As I hope you appreciate, I am a member of two major committees—the Senate Judiciary and Foreign Relations committees. I am a member of the Space and Aeronautics committee and a number of subcommittees.

In the first of these responsibilities, it was unfortunately impossible for me to appear before the Labor and Public Welfare committee to endorse the extremely great need for additional funds for cancer research in the HEW appropriations legislation.

Regrettably, the Senate committee, however, failed to provide the $5 million earmarked by the House of Representatives. I have consulted the Senate committee to urge appropriate action when the bill is up for conference.

Sharing your interest in curing cancer and this constructive, humanitarian program, and with kindest regards—U. S. Senator Wiley.

Crusade Thanks

Editor. The State Journal—I wish to express to you the thanks of Mr. Roberts and the Crusade staff for the fine coverage which The Wisconsin State Journal gave to the Crusade's crusade held recently in Madison.

We are always grateful for a newspaper account which gives objective and straightforward reporting of our meetings. Certainly, we can say that those who were sent out to report on the meetings did good work and showed great interest in the crusade.

Best regards to you and The State Journal staff.—Hart R. Armstrong, Crusade Administrator.

Engineer's Folly

Editor. The State Journal—Perhaps I am blaming the wrong department in the title of this letter for the dangerous open drainage ditches on the West side.

But whores is responsible for them is either crazy and/or childless. No parent in his right mind would be a party to constructing these ditches as the solution to a drainage problem in areas heavily populated with children.

However, what's done is done. Now a solution had better be found to eradicate this hazard before any more children lose their lives (which almost recurred the other day).

I do not know much about such things, but it would seem to me that some kind of steel grating could be used to cover the ditches, or at least to cover every culvert opening.

Whatever the cost, it would be minimal in comparison with the loss of a child's life—Mrs. William Ishamel, 394 Columbia rd.

Young Kennedy

Editor. State Journal—We learn from the exuberant young Kennedy that the Democratic nomination is already his, so we do not have to bother about that race.

He keeps the public closely informed of the people in each state. He is willing to relate Sen. Symington and Johnson back to their duties. He would ignore Stevenson's experience and pluck off the nomination while everyone is having a good time.

Kennedy is not concerned about the opinions of Mrs. FDR and former President Truman. He might cede the majority leader the second spot.

Now of the thoroughly experienced and seasoned statesmen has campaigned extensively, but it is a safe guess that the Democrats will consider the gravity of the situation and will not let Kennedy run. Kennedy, who is highly recommended by the friends of the Kennedy fortune.

Beth O. Ogden, Oklahoma City, Okla.

No Monarchs

The federal budget sets aside $100,000 to renovate the White House for the next ten years. O'Brien initiated savings would, of course, be a sign of overconfidence.

Wisconsin State Journal

Page of Opinion

Renewing an Old Pledge

Today a new Old Glory, 50 stars strong, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America. The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this

is. The issue then was freedom or slavery, will fly over from Mexico and also stand tall in America.

The new states have added stars to the field of blue, the first additions since Arizona and New Mexico joined the union 49 years ago. To add them, we have left the continental limits, even hopped a wide ocean, to welcome Alaska and Hawaii.

It is a good day to think back to simpler times on this Independence Day of 1960.

The old Fourth of July speeches are gone now, in a nation more worldly wise. The parades, where they still are held, don't stir up quite the same excitement. And, sadly enough, not every home and business place will put out a flag.

It was not so on July Fourth in 1960.

Oregon had been admitted the year before to become the 33rd state.

It was a presidential year, as this is